FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The writing life can be a challenge to sustain.

A new guide for writers at all stages,

ON BEING A WRITER,

Releases with T. S. Poetry Press, to be a coach along the way.

FRANKFORT, Indiana (October 31, 2014) – “Is your writing life all it can be?” That’s the question asked in On Being a Writer: 12 Simple Habits for a Writing Life that Lasts. The book, recently released by T.S. Poetry Press, publisher of three-time Oprah Selection The Whipping Club, acts as a personal coach, to explore the writing life the reader already has and the writing life the reader wishes for—working strategically to help close the gap between the two.

Authors Ann Kroeker and Charity Singleton Craig share honest and witty stories from their own established writing careers to help build the vision for a satisfying, sustainable writing life. Prompts and activities like journaling, writing prompts, bonus activities, and discussion questions, reveal twelve vital habits that assist in making that life a reality.

The book also includes extra resources like “tools for the writing life,” “recommended reading,” “Artist Dates,” “resources for writing a book proposal,” and “resources for launching a writers group.” Sage, Surprising, Endlessly Useful!

“A genial marriage of practice and theory. For writers new and seasoned. This book is a winner.”
—Philip Gulley, author Front Porch Tales

ON BEING A WRITER: 12 SIMPLE HABITS FOR A WRITING LIFE THAT LASTS was released October 24, 2014, by T. S. Poetry Press, and is currently available on Amazon, as well as through other major online retailers and Ingram by late November.

About the Authors

Ann Kroeker grew up near Plainfield, Ind., and graduated from Indiana University as an English Major with a creative writing emphasis. She launched her freelance writing career as a young adult and has been working for over two decades as a writer, editor, and most recently as a writing coach. Author of two books and editor for Tweetspeak Poetry and The High Calling, Ann is a sought-after resource for editorial guidance. She continues to explore new writing opportunities, speak in a range of venues, maintain connections in the publishing world, and work with writers to help them take the next step in their writing careers.

Charity Singleton Craig grew up near Greencastle, Ind., and graduated from Taylor University as a Mass Communications Major with an emphasis in print media. After a brief stint in newspaper journalism, Charity worked in several other industries throughout the years, all while attempting to live the writing life. Recently, she became a full-time freelance writer and editor, serving as a content and copy editor for The High Calling, a contributing writer for Tweetspeak Poetry, and a staff writer for Curator Magazine. She also serves several clients with their corporate communication needs.
